The Town Gossip

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

I WENT home early.
TO DO some work.
BEFORE SUPPER.
AND ALSO shave myself.
AND TRIED to light.
THE GAS stove.
IN THE kitchen.
TO HEAT up.
SOME WATER.
SO I could shave.
AND THE gas wouldn't light.
AND I telephoned.
TO CHARLEY Zorn.
AND HE said.
THAT HE'D be right up.
TO FIX it.
AND I went ahead.
AND I was in the bathroom.
AND SHAVED anyway.
AND HAD just lathered.
MY FACE up good.
WHEN THE door bell rang.
AND I knew it was Charley.
AND HOLLERED to him.
TO GO right back in the kitchen.
AND I heard him.
WALKING THROUGH the hall.
AND THEN I remembered.
THAT THERE was something.
ABOUT THE stove.
THAT I wanted to show him.
AND I know him pretty well.

SO I didn't bother.
TO WASH the lather.
OFF MY face.
OR TO get out.
OF MY bath robe.
BUT WALKED right back.
INTO THE kitchen.
AND I almost went.
THROUGH THE floor.
AND IT wasn't Charley.
AT ALL.
BUT SOME lady.
FROM OUR church.
WHO HAD come.
TO CALL on my wife.
AND THERE she sat.
IN THE kitchen.
AND THERE I stood.
WITH MY face.
COVERED WITH lather.
AND MY bath robe.
TOO SHORT for me.
AND A razor in my hand.
AND SHE looked scared.
WHEN SHE saw the razor.
AND I didn't wait.
TO EXPLAIN or anything.
BUT BEAT it to the bath room.
AND HOLLERED back.
THAT THE wife was out.
AND I think.
SHE LEFT.
SOON AFTERWARDS.
I THANK you.

GOVERNMENT TO GIVE AWAY CARS

VAST SURPLUS OF MOTOR MA-CHINERY USED IN WAR
TIME TO BE GIVEN
THE PUBLIC.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Under legislation which has passed the senate during the last few days, and is in a fair way to pass the house soon, the general public will receive the benefit of a vast surplus of motor-propelled vehicles and other motor equipment which was left over when the armistice was signed and is now in the possession of the war department.

The bill empowers the secretary of war to transfer, free of charge, such motor-propelled vehicles and motor equipment, including spare parts, as are or may hereafter be found to be no longer required for military purposes, to the department of agriculture for use in the improvement of highways and roads; to the postoffice department for use in the transmission of the mails; to the treasury department for use of the public health service and to the navy department.

It is expected that a vast deal of this motor-propelled material will find its way to the states for use in building roads. The bill establishes the following rules for the transfer of the material:

"Freight charges incurred in the transfer of the property provided for in this act shall not be defrayed by the war department, and if the war department shall load any of said property for shipment the expense of said loading shall be reimbursed by the war department by the department to which the property is transferred by an adjustment of the appropriations of the two departments. Provided, however, that any state receiving any of said property for use in the improvement of public highways shall, as to the property it receives, reimburse the department of agriculture for all amounts paid by that department to the war department in reimbursement of loading charges upon said property.

"Any state highway department to which is assigned motor-propelled vehicles and other equipment and supplies, transferred herein to the department of agriculture, may, in its discretion, arrange for the use of such vehicles and equipment for the purpose of constructing or maintaining public highways, with any state agency or municipal corporation at a fair rental, which shall not be less than the cost of maintenance and repair of said vehicles and equipment. The title to said vehicles and equipment shall be, and remain vested in the state for use in the improvement of the public highways, and no such vehicles and equipment in serviceable condition shall be sold or the title to same transferred to any individual, company or corporation."

The same bill provides for the transfer from the war department to the department of agriculture for road building purposes of a vast amount of other road-making material no longer required for military purposes, including road rollers, graders, and oilers; sprinkling wagons, concrete mixers, derricks, pile drivers, air and steam drill outfits, centrifugal and diaphragm pumps with power, rock crushers, road scarifiers, caterpillar and drag-line excavators, plows, etc.

NEW YORK AS DRY AS DESERT EXCEPT FOR BLIND TIGERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Except for a few "blind tigers" New York is now as dry as a camel's throat, according to H. W. Mager, chief of internal revenue agents, who said: "I estimate conservatively that seventy-five per cent of the 5,598 saloons in the five boroughs of the city have closed their doors, and that the remaining twenty-five per cent are doing a legitimate business in soft drinks and lunches."

"New York has the best record as regards the enforcing the national prohibition act, judging from a comparison of reports received from my agents in the large cities of the country that were 'wet' up to July 1."

"It is better that the prohibition enforcement law can only be successfully administered thru local support and it will be our policy to encourage each state to function for itself. We are now endeavoring to locate efficient supervising officials in the states who will be made responsible for proper enforcement of the law. The present internal revenue force will carry on enforcement work in a temperate but fearless and vigorous manner until the permanent organization shall be perfected."

County Council Indorses Governor Commends Miners

Only a few members of the County Council of Defense met yesterday afternoon in response to the call of the chairman. It was the opinion of those present that in the absence of the full membership it was not advisable to undertake a thorough survey of the county as requested by the state council. The chairman was instructed to inform the state council that Pontotoc County is able to take care of its fuel needs but that it will hardly be possible to ship fuel into other counties from this. The following resolution was unanimously adopted by those present.

RESOLUTIONS
adopted by the County Council of Defense of Pontotoc County, Oklahoma, at Ada, November 5, 1919.

1. We commend the efforts of Governor J. B. A. Robertson to preserve law and order and protect the rights of property in Oklahoma, and indorse his action in sending the state troops to guard against possible violations of the law in the mining districts.

2. We commend the miners of Oklahoma for their apparent disposition to preserve law and order in the mine fields and to carry out their program in an orderly and lawful manner.

We favor the most full and painstaking investigation of conditions in the mining district by the regularly constituted authorities in order that the source of the present trouble may be ascertained, and we favor such remedial measures as investigation may show to be necessary in order that complete justice may be secured to all parties concerned.

26 BLACKS PLEAD GUILTY IN TRIAL OF RACE RIOTERS

HELENA, Ark., Nov. 5.—Twenty-six negroes, charged with first degree murder in connection with negro disturbances near Elaine early in October, entered pleas of guilty in the Phillips county circuit court here today and were sentenced by Judge J. M. Jackson to serve terms of five years each in the state penitentiary.

Eleven negroes have been convicted of first degree murder in connection with the Elaine trouble and several additional murder cases remain to be tried. John E. Miller, prosecuting attorney, has announced that he expects all cases growing out of the Elaine and Hood Spur disturbances to be completed this week.

"JAKE" KILLS SHOWMAN.

HOMINY, Nov. 6.—Ferdinand Mack Wilson, Kansas City vaudeville performer, died in an automobile near here Sunday. He and his brother and two other men had been to Cleveland and on the way back all of them became ill. It is said "Jake" with a foundation of denatured alcohol was the cause. All the others will probably recover. There were reports here that several men had been poisoned by "Jake" at Wynona.

UP TO EVERY MAN TO DO DAY'S WORK

FARMERS INSIST IT'S TIME FOR EVERYONE TO TOIL. "BE HE HOBO OR MILLIONAIRE."

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 5.—The farmers of Oklahoma are seriously considering the industrial problems that confront the country. John Simpson of Weatherford, president of the Oklahoma branch of the National Farmers' Union, declared in a meeting of the secretaries of commercial clubs here, and "we are practically unanimous in concluding that every able-bodied man—be he hobo or millionaire—should be doing a reasonable day's work. We do not think the wages are of as much importance as that he shall be willing to do a full day's work every day in the week."

Mr. Simpson urges co-operation between the farmers and business men. "In the protection of all of us in our property rights our interests run parallel and we should be found working side by side. When farmers do organize they, sooner or later, co-operate in some business enterprise. Here is where many business men see ghosts and fear dangers that do not exist."

"If the organized farmers in your community decide to build a co-operative elevator or a co-operative gin, or even a co-operative grocery or produce house, do not be alarmed. It will not hurt any business man in the town whose business is worth living. In fact, experience shows that a farmers' co-operative institution will draw trade that it will help nine-tenths of the business men in that town."

Calling attention to the position of the farmer who works every day and early and late, Mr. Simpson showed that there was never any indication on the farmer's part that he would strike and thereby decrease production of the necessities of life. But the farmer is coming to think that his fellow-workers in the industries should be made to feel a little more responsibility and not be so ready to quit when things don't exactly suit.

State Council Seeking Workers For Coal Fields

The following telegram has been received by Judge Busby, chairman of the county council of defense. If there is any one in Pontotoc County who desires such employment as the telegram suggests, he should communicate with Jno. A. Whitehurst, Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 4, 1919. Orel Busby, Chairman County Council of Defense, Ada, Okla.

I am requested by the Governor and state council of defense to ask you to call the county council in session Friday at two o'clock to consider the fuel situation, to make a survey of coal, wood, or oil in the hands of dealers, industries, schools, and private homes, also estimating amount necessary to take care of your county. If you have wood, what quantity can you spare above your own needs, also make survey of oil stoves and burners. We would like to have survey of electricians, blacksmiths, and men who have had mining experiences, that might volunteer their services at this time. Make quick survey and get to me at once.

U. S. INQUISITIVE WHEN CENSUS IS TAKEN IN 1920

Information and then more information.

That's what Uncle Sam is after when the fourteenth national census starts Jan. 2. The large number of questions the enumerator must ask the citizens of these United States clearly indicates that your Uncle Sam is mighty interested in his people.

According to advance instructions received from Washington by Roady Kenahan, supervisor of census for Denver, the enumerator will have his hands full filling out the lengthy population schedule required by the census bureau.

The law provides that all persons shall be enumerated at their "usual place of abode." This means the place where they sleep.

After giving the street and house number, the person must give his or her full name, with the initial of the middle name. The relationship of the person to the head of the family is then noted. The head of the family is asked whether the home is owned or rented or mortgaged. A personal description of each person then follows, including the sex, color or race, age at last birthday, single, married or divorced. The question of citizenship is then asked, the enumerator being forced to go into detail on this subject where foreign-born residents are enumerated.

Other questions asked by the enumerator follow: Education, attended school any time since Sept. 1, 1919; whether able to read or write; place of birth, giving state or country; mother tongue; place of birth of father, mother tongue; place of birth of mother, mother tongue; whether able to speak English; occupation, trade, profession or particular kind of work done, as spinner, salesman, laborer, etc.; industry, business or establishment in which at work, such as cotton mill, dry goods store, farm, etc.; employer, salary or wage worker, or working on own account.

When We Dream

One of the new theories about life after death is that when we die we merely go to the same place we do when asleep.

"In sleep the body lies inert; dead, the spirit goes forth into the astral realm and our dream memories are of actual experiences we have had with our loved ones who have gone before." Thus one of the exponents of the theory.

All we can say is that if this theory proves true we personally are in for one awful time.

We don't dream of our first love, or of departed relatives. Usually we

NEWSPAPER ADS AND THEIR POWER

EXPERT LECTURER TO TELL HOW TO GET BEST RESULTS FROM THEIR JUDICIOUS USE

One of the best things along educational lines that has come to our notice recently and which has secured a great deal of commendable publicity from newspapers and letters of endorsement from Business Organizations in the largest cities, is the lecture and moving pictures on Retail Merchandising that is being sent out by the National Cash Register Co., of Dayton, Ohio. The Chamber of Commerce has been able to secure this entertainment for the benefit of the merchants and clerks of Ada, and it will be presented at the Normal Auditorium, Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

The title of the picture is "The Troubles of a Merchant and How to Stop Them", and is pronounced one of the cleverest pieces of work ever produced covering retail merchandising.

The wide-awake business man today is eager to keep pace with the latest ideas of storekeeping and better ideas in merchandising and these pictures and lecture come to our city at an opportune time. The lecture covers: Retail failures—their causes; store organization; newspaper advertising; window display; clerks' efficiency; selling methods; credit business; and system in retail business.

Any one of these subjects would be of great interest to the merchants and clerks, and the one in particular which should receive favorable consideration from the business man today is the value of newspaper advertising—judiciously and constantly used. The lecturer will give some useful hints along these lines, as well as other phases of efficiency methods that will be helpful to the merchant and Clerk. There will be no charge for admission.

"THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL"

Complete returns from Tuesday's election show the re-election of Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts by a majority of 125,000.

Coolidge was running for re-election on a law-and-order platform. He is the governor who broke up the strike of policemen in Boston. He had been marked for political slaughter by the radicals of the Bay State. His opponent appealed to the radical element and devoted his campaigning to the industrial centers of the state where Union Labor is most strongly entrenched. But Coolidge has won by one of the biggest majorities ever given a gubernatorial candidate in Massachusetts.

The result is most significant. It shows that the American people are for law and order and are determined to have law and order. It also shows that Union Labor is largely for law and order, else Coolidge could never have won by such a large majority in a great industrial state like Massachusetts. It shows that bolshevism has gained no substantial foothold in the industrial centers of America.

There is a world of warning for labor in the Massachusetts returns. It must clean its house or perish. There is no alternative. In days gone by no candidate would have challenged the labor element, and no man openly opposing its demands could have carried an election, particularly in an industrial state. But conditions have changed. The American people are tired of strikes for one thing, and are against bolshevism for another thing. They will not hesitate to fight any organization, however powerful, that lays itself open to the suspicion of being dominated by radical sentiment. They will most assuredly destroy Union Labor itself, unless that organization frees itself of the radical element that now has entirely too much to say in directing the policy of the organization. By listening to leaders who boast of being "redder than any red in Gary," labor will just as sure as fate lose all it has gained by twenty-five years of arduous struggle.

The hand-writing is on the wall. Labor must clean its house if it hopes to survive. The common sense and love of fair play long characteristic of the Anglo-Saxon will give an American organization everything it is entitled to. But the Anglo-Saxon has never compromised with anarchy or yielded to its demands, and will never treat with an order whose loyalty is suspected. Labor must come clean. It must free itself of a contemptible but vociferous few who are bringing the many under the ban of public disapproval.

This is America and we are a great people. Just let some Snake Indian take a couple of Jake-shots and every jail in Ada is invitingly open. But let anyone of the elite of Ada come down Main from the Normal with his car hitting fifty miles an hour and it is a matter of no importance. Last night a mob of those of the higher culture, fresh from a classic entertainment, came down the leading avenue of Ada violating all speed regulations and menacing the life of every pedestrian who had to cross the street. A gang of African negroes returning from a corn-shucking could have given them a lesson in decorum. Some of these mornings one of these high-drivers will wake up with his bowels full of buckshot and then the city will be advertised far and wide as a rendezvous of the ungodly.

WHERE THE BALLOT IS CHEAP

Over in the Fifth district the majority is beating the brush and spending thousands of dollars in a frantic campaign to get a full vote out on election day. They have a majority of several thousand voters in the district, but fear that many of them will fail to vote.

This is but the repetition of every campaign since statehood. At no time has the majority party ever organized a campaign to convince voters. But since statehood the majority party has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars trying to get voters to cast their vote. Every campaign since statehood has seen the majority combing the highways and hedges trying to secure a full vote on election day.

The right to vote has cost millions of money and thousands of lives. It was won at the mouth of flaming cannon. But tens of thousands of Americans regard the ballot as a nuisance. They care nothing for the privilege that better men died to win. They fail to exercise the privilege of suffrage. They even forget the date of the election. It requires a campaign more vigorous than a mid-war drive to get out a fair-sized number of voters.

Such a condition furnishes a paradise for the special interest and the political black-leg. So long as the plain people refuse to guard their interests minorities easily obtain control. It is an easy matter to arouse resentment against the party and parties in power, but it is almost impossible to arouse sufficient interest to get out a vote large enough to keep those parties out of power. It costs a king's ransom at every election to get out a fair sized vote.

Legislators and others have planned to limit suffrage by making voting more difficult. Almost every state has imposed some restrictive limitation on suffrage. Possibly it would be better for the state to fine every legal voter who fails to cast his vote. A poll tax on non-voters might be worth considering.

Hard work is the best thing in the world to keep a growing boy out of trouble. And the same medicine is very helpful to a grown man.

Love of Flag Is the Theme for Schools, Says Iowa Governor

PITTSBURG, Kan., Nov. 6.—Governor W. L. Harding of Iowa, in addressing the southeastern branch of the Kansas State Teachers' Association here last night, emphasized the importance of the public school as "the training quarters for citizenship and life work of the future men and women of the country."

"Love for the flag and patriotism should be the theme for each day of the school year," he continued. "The fate of the republic is in the hands of the school teachers of the country. Believing this as I do, I count it the duty of every citizen to take a profound interest in the school problems of the country. The man or woman who says that they are too busy to attend to the affairs of the public school are but saying that they haven't time to take an interest in their country's future welfare."

Automobile Party Killed and Injured Near Enid Today

ENID, Okla., Nov. 6.—Mrs. Martin Quinones, a girl seven years old and a boy four years old, both unidentified, were killed instantly, and Martin Quinones and two daughters, ten and twelve years of age, were perhaps fatally injured this morning when an automobile in which they were driving was struck by a Rock Island train at Kremlin, seventeen miles south of here. The dead and injured are believed to be residents of Sioux Falls, S. D., and were on their way home from El Paso, Texas.

Today's Markets

All cotton markets were reactionary today owing to the bearish ginning report by the National Ginners Association, which said 6,200,000 bales had been ginned to November 1, which was much larger than generally expected. Also they estimated the probable crop at 10,900,000. This latter figure was not generally believed and on a forecast for freezing weather in the western belt, the early sellers covered and prices were at about the top for the day. Unfavorable features which cause further liquidation are the advancing of the Federal Reserve Bank of their discount rate and the opinion that cold weather would do little damage.

ELECTRIC PROJECT MAKES ONE MARVEL

DREAMS OF SCIENTISTS COME TRUE; MAN OPERATES CARS AT A DISTANCE. CAPACITY 3,000 TONS DAILY

The crushing plant of the Oklahoma Cement Company at Lawrence is now equipped with electric appliances and is operated on one of the most modern haulage and crushing systems known to science. The electric haulage system has just been installed and is now in operation.

One who has not kept abreast of the developments in the realms of science, more especially electricity, will marvel if he travels down to Lawrence and watches for a time the seemingly miraculous movement of cars. A young man stands in a glass enclosed tower and operates a series of levers. A car is now standing under the building empty. The operator pulls a lever and the car moves off, unassisted by man or beast or steam, down the track. If it runs too fast, the lever is pulled in an opposite direction and the brakes are applied. If it does not run fast enough, a bit more "juice" is shot to it and it picks up like a dutiful child. If for some reason the car should be stopped, the lever is pulled again and the moving article becomes stationary.

The car all alone moves on around to the steam shovel where it is loaded in a jiffy and then another lever is pulled. The loaded car starts off and stops under the crusher building. Another lever is then pulled and a giant hand reaches down and tips the body of the car, relieving it of its load.

There are three cars in operation and one large steam shovel. It takes only two men on the shovel and only one man to handle the four cars.

It is said that the Cement Company, although it cost approximately $125,000 to install this equipment, will save considerable money in the long run, as it requires much less fuel and labor, two great cost factors in the manufacture of any article at this time.

It is reported that before long, the cement company may construct a track from the quarries at Lawrence to the mills at Ada and bring the crushed stone and the shale into town on its own tracks. If this is done, it is likely that the same electric process will be used as is now used at Lawrence.

This method of electric haulage was originated and the various processes patented by F. E. Woodford of Chicago. It was installed under the personal direction of Samuel C. Cregar, also of Chicago. Mr. Cregar has been here since July and has completed the job. He will leave in a day or so to take charge of a similar job at Columbus, Ohio, for the Marblehead Quarry Co.

There are only seventeen haulage systems like this in the world. This being the last one completed. Deles & Shepherd of Novak, Ill., were the first to install the system.

The Woodford Engineering Co. is now constructing a plant at Barton, W. Va., costing approximately a quarter of a million dollars.

The haulage system at Lawrence has a capacity of 3,000 tons daily by using seven cars. Only three cars are now in use, but others will be put on as the crushing plant needs them. The highest production thus far obtained is 1238 tons with a loss of more than two fifths of the time.

Those who are interested in scientific projects will do well to go down to Lawrence and look over the plant.

SENATOR GORE'S TREATY AMENDMENT IS KILLED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The peace treaty amendment presented by Senator Gore, Democrat of Oklahoma, to make the vote popular was necessary before any declaration of war under the League of Nations was rejected by the senate. The vote was 67 to 16, the Republican leader and other leading anti-leaguers voting against the amendment.

AUTOS TAKE PLACE OF THE RAILROADS

UNITED STATES OFFICIAL SAYS THAT CARS MAY ELIMINATE SOME OF THE SHORT LINES

An official of the United States railroad administration recently made the statement that the motor car is becoming a serious competitor of the railroads and that it will eventually drive many short lines completely out of business.

"Several considerations enter into this somewhat remarkable analysis of the transportation situation," said a prominent manufacturer, commenting on the subject. "It hasn't been so many generations ago since the American public was quite content with the speed of mule-drawn canal barges and horse-drawn wagons. They were their only means of transportation and few people even thought of the possibility of getting things moved faster. It was the maximum of transportation equipment and everybody was satisfied."

"But along came the railroads with their innumerable branches and short lines and before long both farmer and merchant were shipping things to each other by this new method. It was much quicker and therefore cheaper. Instead of hauling all the way by wagon, they used the wagon only in hauling to the freight depot, saving their horses and themselves for increased production."

Then the advent of the motor car brought still another change. The farmer is finding that he can save still more time and energy by leaving his horses on the farm to rest or continue their work while he hurries away to the city or to the freight station in his car. And the merchant has long since found that the horse is a financial burden compared with the motor car for delivery and general hauling purposes.

It is true particularly in any business that requires a light vehicle for quick service.

"And it is a fact, as this railroad official said, that farmers and merchants are not only using motor cars to haul their goods to the depot, but that they are going a step farther, saving a second and third handling by leaving them on the car and hauling direct to their destination. It is this tendency toward eliminating waste of time and duplication of effort that dooms the short line railroad.

"And coupled with this is the equally important fact that many large business houses are equipping their salesmen with motor cars. These salesmen formerly depended exclusively on the short lines. But short line trains usually are not continental limiteds, nor do they run as often as the salesman desires to move. Consequently there is an enormous loss of time. It is no wonder that the motor car, always available and always reliable, is finding favor with these salesmen. They complete their work and move along, independent of schedules. And so another of the old reliable customers of the little railroads is deserting them—and the day is not far distant when the roads will have to succumb."

Directly substantiating this viewpoint is the case of the Perkins Dry Goods company of Dallas, Texas, which has installed a fleet of eight specially equipped Dodge Brothers motor cars for the salesmen who cover the territory in the neighborhood of Dallas. By the use of these cars the salesmen have been able to call on an average of three times the number of customers usually seen by the old method of railroad travel.

BOARD SUGGESTS AIR SERVICE REMAIN SEPARATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Approval of the theory of a consolidation of the air services of the government under a separate department or commission is contained in the report of a special army board appointed by the war department to consider pending bills to that end. The report was transmitted today to Chairman Wadsworth of the Senate military committee by Secretary Baker, who disagreed with the board's principal recommendations.

The board was composed of Major General Menoher, director of army air service; Major General Coe, chief of coast artillery; Major General Haan, chief of the training section, general staff, and Major General Snow, chief of field artillery.

It recommended that congress enact an aviation policy based either on a ten-year program with large annual appropriations guaranteed to stimulate commercial aeronautics, or make appropriations for air development by the postoffice, war and navy departments.

If the former policy is adopted the board recommended that a separate department of aeronautics be created; if the latter, that a commission under the director of aeronautics reporting directly to the president be formed to co-ordinate the work.

The board held that the army and navy should retain the essential elements of their organizations and should have control over operations of all military and naval air forces that might be provided. It urged also that the army aviation service "should be kept on an equal footing with the infantry, cavalry, and other arms, with a permanent personnel."

ENGLISH PREACHERS FORM LABOR UNION

By the Associated Press

WIMBORNE, England, (By Mail.)

Clergymen, following the example of physicians and other professional men in England, are forming a trade union for the purpose of securing better conditions and more pay. The Rev. C. W. Lloyd-Evans, vicar of the parish church at Milborne, St. Andrew, in the heart of Dorsetshire, is leading the movement, and he is in receipt of letters from clergymen in all parts of the country pledging support.

Most of his correspondents unite in scoring bishops. One says: "The clergy may go to the workhouse for all the bishops care."

"We want a regular trade union," writes still another, proposing "a clerical strike if our demands are not listened to and our grievances redressed by those in authority without delay."

Mr. Lloyd-Evans says the clergy-men, when organized, will demand a salary of $2500 a year, and increased pensions.

PRAYER MEETING AT THE FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

At the prayer meeting at the First Christian Church tonight a study of the Book of Romans will be begun. Among the subjects that will be discussed will be the following: How came the church to be established in the city of Rome; where Paul wrote the letter to the Romans and under what circumstances; whether Paul had been to Rome before he wrote this letter; the predominant thought in the letter; the people that made up the church in Rome; how the letters that were written to the churches by the apostles were transmitted to those churches.

The meeting promises to be an interesting one, and every member of the church is invited.—C. V. Dunn, Minister.

New Ruling Made on the Disposition of Halfblood's Lands

A homestead allotment of a deceased half-blood Indian must be held by a minor heir born since March 4, 1916, until April, 1931, unless the consent of the secretary of the interior is obtained, according to a decision of the circuit court of appeals in the cases of C. R. Privett, former Haskell banker, against the United States, John O. Mitchell and J. E. Crosby of Tulsa also are interested in the cases as holding leases on the lands in dispute. The leases on the lands were obtained from the minor heir without consent of the government. A question of fact as to the age of the allottee was decided in favor of the government, which held that he was born since March, 1906.

Government Opens Bar In New York to Teach Agents Saloon Methods

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The United States government opened a bar recently—brass footrail and everything—in the custom house. Here federal agents are instructed in saloon ethics. This is all part of the school for prohibition enforcers in New York. Rye, Scotch and "third rail" whiskies adorn the "mahogany," together with 2.75 per cent beer and "light" wines. Appearance of "customers" who have partaken of drinks stronger than the law allows is demonstrated and ways and means of getting liquor with a kick in it are rehearsed for the classes. How to approach a bartender and what to talk to him about also are taught.

Robertson and Hanson Score Bolshevism In Two Muskogee Speeches

Ole Hanson, the famous anti-Bolshevik ex-mayor of the city of Seattle, and Governor J. B. A. Robertson, speaking before large audiences at the Muskogee State Fair last Friday, gave the people of this state an insight into the radical conditions prevailing in the state that they have probably never had before. They are said by the press to be the boldest replies to the Bolshevik element of the state ever made. A dispatch from Muskogee under date of yesterday, special to the News, says:

Governor J. B. A. Robertson of Oklahoma, and Ole Hanson, the famous Seattle Nemesis of Bolshevism, occupied the stage in Muskogee yesterday, each making stirring addresses before the Rotary Club at noon, at the Oklahoma Free State Fair grounds in the afternoon, and before the Aero Club at night.

Both the governor and Mr. Hanson made stirring American addresses. Governor Robertson, in one talk, said he had encountered I. W. W.'ism even in the halls of courthouses and the statehouse. He accused business men and the citizenry generally in some Oklahoma cities—including Muskogee—of lacking the nerve to deal with emergencies. Along the same line, Mr. Hanson declared that outlawry and anarchy, I. W. W.'ism and bolshevism, should be dealt with mercilessly—stamped out with machine guns and clubs, even if it became necessary "to kill 1,000 men or 500,000 men" to do it.

Proposing such a step for the first time, Governor Robertson said in his night address before the Aero club that the progress of the times demanded that the Oklahoma constitution be rewritten. He said the document upon which the law of the state is based is so antiquated and obsolete that a new one is needed to assure the advance of the state.

Selective immigration was suggested by Mr. Hanson as the proper and only available solution for the unrest and nervousness of the day in America. Bolshevism and anarchy are in the saddle in the United States now, he said, to a degree not even suspected by the average citizen. Preponderance of foreign-born and foreign-thinking masses—men who should not even be allowed to set foot in America—is the chief contributing cause for this condition, he believes. Congress should immediately revise the immigration laws, he said.

Both Governor Robertson and Mr. Hanson gave unstinted praise for the Oklahoma Free State Fair which they visited in the afternoon.

There are some quotations from the speeches that sounded the tocsin of patriotism in such terms as to bring every thinking man in the state to his senses. Commenting editorially on the address of the governor, the Muskogee Times-Democrat says:

The Governor Speaks Plainly.
Governor Robertson gave Muskogee business men a jolt Friday when he told them that in the recent strike disturbances here they had been more or less guilty of encouraging violation of law by putting "Fair to Union Labor" cards in their windows. The governor drew a clear distinction between support of organized labor in securing its just rights and in support of lawlessness and rioting. He also created a sensation when he made the statement that all I. W. W. are not found among the laboring men, but are also found in county court houses and in the statehouse itself. For the governor to make the plain statement that there is an I. W. W. holding office in this state is startling, to say the least. But the governor was not mincing words and apparently would have been willing to call the official by name if requested.

The point the governor drove home was that the time has come when men must stand for the staunch observance of law under all circumstances and that cowardice in business must be overcome to the extent that men in business must not be afraid to stand out in the open and declare themselves against any form of lawlessness, whether it be by individuals or by mobs. He also sounded a warning that unless this is done the immediate future will bring a condition in which life and property will not be safe, there will be no respect for the law and its enforcement, in fact that we are just now on the dividing line between law and anarchy, and unless men have courage to stand by their convictions the result is uncertain.

THE SPIRIT OF AMERICAN LIBERTY WELCOMES KING ALBERT

Luxury Demand In This Country Has Not Abated

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Public demand for luxuries continue unabated, according to the September report from the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago on business conditions in the Seventh District. In the language of the statement, luxuries "are being gobbled up faster than they can be produced."

"The people will have jewelry and they want the costliest," the report continues. "The watch factories cannot keep up with orders, partly because it is impossible to obtain materials and deficient labor. Prices would go higher but for the policy of one dominant factor, stated thus: 'We do not want to see this vicious circle of advanced prices and costs go on any longer.'"

The demand for silks, the report says, "is characterized as 'extravagant.'"

Evidence is seen in the Middle West of "a rather marked disposition to 'capitalize' present prices and conditions, notwithstanding the fact that they are due primarily to the war." This is indicated, it says, by the land movement where present owners of land, seeking to capitalize present prices of farm products, are exacting higher rentals and holding for higher acreage prices, and by the appeal of the Illinois Agricultural Association and the Indiana Federation of Farmers to hold their livestock and grain until a "same market has re-established itself." If the latter movement becomes widespread, it is declared, it would in a measure defeat efforts to readjust living prices to a lower level.

Efforts to use the cost of living as a lever to obtain high wages and short hours, "thus curtailing production and tending to perpetuate the existing high living costs" are said to make for unrest, and manufacturers "report an attitude among wage earners not to work full time when they have plenty of money in their pockets."

But business in the district is said to be "very good," and "retailers...selling all the goods they can get at high prices, making enough to pay to cover the increased cost of doing business."

"The demand for the best qualities of merchandise is insistent and, regardless of newspaper headlines, the people appear to have money in pocket to pay for whatever they fancy."

Episcopalians Who Are Divorced Cannot Remarry

By the Associated Press
DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 6.—Clergymen of the Episcopal church will be prohibited from officiating at the marriage of any person who has been divorced, if the general convention of the denomination to open here, Oct. 8, adopts the report of a joint commission of bishops, clergy and laymen.

The report, signed by the bishops of North Carolina, Chicago, Long Island, Lexington and Vermont, proposes a new Canon which reads: "No marriage shall be solemnized in this church between parties, either of whom has a husband or wife still living, who has been divorced for any cause arising after marriage."

A minority report, signed by the Rev. Leighton Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's church, New York, and a member of the commission, would make the Canon read:

"No minister, knowingly, after the due enquiry, shall solemnize the marriage of any person who has been or is the husband or wife of any other person then living from whom he or she has been divorced."

A similar proposal before the general convention of 1916 was adopted by a majority of the clerical votes in the House of Deputies but was defeated by a narrow margin of lay votes. The House of Bishops did not reach a vote on the matter.

Under the present Canon law of the church the innocent party to a divorce may be married by an Episcopal clergyman if the bishop, after an examination of the court records and consultation with his legal advisor, gives his consent. But even then no clergyman is compelled to officiate at such a marriage.

The proposed legislation makes no distinction between the innocent and the guilty, absolutely prohibiting Episcopal clergymen from solemnizing the marriage of divorced persons.

KENDALL ROMPS ON EAST CENTRAL

GRIDSTERS FROM ADA FIGHT HARD BUT ARE UNABLE TO CHECK KENDALL COL-
LEGE'S ATTACK.

Special to the News:
TULSA, Okla., Oct. 5.—Playing in a sea of mud and water, and with the rain descending in torrents, Kendall college gridsters defeated the East Central normal eleven here yesterday 60 to 0. Despite difficulty in handling the ball and the slippery field, the game was featured by several spectacular forward passes and numerous brilliant broken field runs.

As was expected East Central furnished formidable opposition to the Kendall players and never let up in their efforts to hold their heavier and faster opponents. However, the visitors were unable to gain on Kendall, making first down but once, that due to a pass, while even with the entire Kendall squad used, including the youngest substitutes, the normals were unable to hold the offensive attack of the locals.

It was the final Kendall game before meeting the Oklahoma university eleven at Norman next Saturday, and Kendall followers are confident the local collegians will put up a great battle at Norman, judging by their work yesterday. Time and again Kendall backs skirted the ends or tore through the line for long gains and their handling of the aerial game, in view of the wet ball, and field, was splendid. That the defense was effective is shown by the inability of East Central to make first downs with the exception of the above mentioned forward pass.

THE GAME IN DETAIL

Representatives from Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and Texas are to attend, as well as Oklahoma physicians.

By News' Special Service
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—"Alaska can pay the nation's war debt."

That's the new slogan of Uncle Sam's last pioneer country to the north.

Not only can Alaska pay the nation's debt, but its people are anxious to do so.

All they need to do it is more men and some of the government's money invested in development of natural resources.

Untold wealth in raw gold, silver, copper and other minerals, lies buried in the mountains of Alaska, where few men have ever set foot. If properly developed, that wealth, dug from the bowels of the earth, will, if the income tax collector does his duty, pay the nation's debt in full.

During the war Alaska's productivity almost reached a standstill. Now, however, the eyes of the government are again being turned on this comparatively virgin country, and the eyes of the people of Alaska are being turned on Washington.

Here's why Alaska can pay the war debt of the United States:
It has an area of 586,400 square miles, extending from the 54th degree of north latitude to the 75th degree. If those figures don't mean much to you these will: Alaska's area is greater than twenty of the 48 states of the union put together!

Its taxable wealth today is less than that of the smallest state of the 48—but its potential wealth is far greater than that of the 20 states mentioned!

Alaska's wealth has only been scraped off the surface. Its population in 1900 was only 63,592, and in 1918 it was officially given as 64,984—an increase of only 1,392 in 18 years. But in reality, the war, which took nearly all the men from Alaska, cut its population in half. These men are now returning, and trying to induce others to return with them.

Once Alaska has the population its resources will support, it will be the richest section of the United States.

And day light saving must have originated in Alaska, for there they have 22 hours of daylight in summer time!

To show how easily Alaska can support a population of many millions, officials of Alaska bureaus of the government call attention to the fact that it is in the same latitude as a section of European Russia which is smaller than Alaska, but has a population of 5,553,000. Included in this section are the cities of Petrograd and Archangel, as well as all the largest cities of Russia. All of Sweden lies in practically the same latitude as Alaska.

In that country wheat, rye and other grains, potatoes, vegetables of all kinds and livestock thrive.

Yet Alaska in 1900 had only 12 improved farms, with a total acreage of 159. In 1910 it had 222 improved farms, with an average of 191 acres to the farm, and with a total valuation, including holdings and livestock, of $1,468,402.

Since 1910 the number of farms has vastly increased, but there are still miles and miles of fertile soil waiting for the hand of the settler.

BRITISH RAILWAY STRIKE SETTLED; LEADERS PLEADED

By the Associated Press
LONDON, Oct. 6.—Leaders of the National Union of Railway Men, who directed the strike which was settled yesterday, declare their satisfaction with the arrangement in messages to the Herald, the organ of Union Labor.

C. T. Cramp, president of the union said: "While we did not obtain the formula which was set forth in the strike resolution, we obtained terms equally good which will give the railway men the same thing in effect. Our men have broken the back of the first attack made upon the entire working class and no doubt this splendid stand will save the workers from a degraded standard of life."

TREATY BLOCKED BY TOO MANY NEW AMENDMENTS SAID

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Instead of clearing away all amendments to the peace treaty and being free to consider reservations, the senate today found more amendments before it than on yesterday.
Senator Borah, republican, of Idaho, had already two new amendments which would provide that the United States should not be bound by articles 10 and 11 of the treaty. The Gore amendment—calling for an advisory vote of the people before a declaration of war also remained for final action. Senate leaders were at sea over a definite plan for action. The course set by the leaders yesterday was altered by the group holding out against ratification of any kind and just how far they will be able to carry the opposition remains a subject of conjecture.

DISSENTION SAPS THE SOVIET POWER

By the Associated Press
WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN GERMANY.—Sidelights on the trend of events in Soviet Russia indicating that internal dissensions in the Bolshevik ranks are sapping the power of the Soviet leaders, are contained in the report of a soldiers' and sailors' conference, details of which recently reached American headquarters. The conference was held in Petrograd in the summer and much dissatisfaction at conditions was displayed by the soldiers who charged that officers enjoyed special privileges and that affairs generally were worse off than they had been under the rule of the former emperor.
Portions of the report read:
"The convention of the supporters of the 'Red' guard and the sailors held in Petrograd, was attended by several thousand from the army and the fleet. The minutes show that the commanders and the war commissioners still take advantage of their office, and although members of the communist party, are ever trying to secure special privileges. The soldiers and sailors were indignant because of the increases in pay of the commanders and declared that conditions were worse now than those that prevailed under the regime of the emperor. They demand that the pay be equal for all, whether the soldier a private or a general.
"Complaints were made against the conditions of the barracks, because no repairs were made and the funds appropriated for this purpose went into the pockets of the high officials. The condition of the hospitals is still more deplorable. There are no doctors or medicine and those really sick or wounded have to shift the best they can for themselves. The worst problem of all is to provide for the families of soldiers in the field. Nothing is done for them and the money for them also disappears in the pockets of the official thieves."

PARIS, Nov. 6.—Premier Clemenceau this morning summoned to his office Albert Lebrun, minister of blockade and invaded regions, and demanded the minister's resignation. PLAN TO DEPOSE GERMAN REGIME JUST DISCOVERED

By News' Special Service
ESSEN, Germany, Nov. 6.—Investigators for the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung of Berlin claim to have discovered plans for a communist uprising to depose the present German government and to establish a new one modeled on the Russian plan which would be associated with the present Russian soviet system. The investigators assert that the proposed revolution is to be assisted and officered by Russian Bolsheviks and that the outbreak is to have its beginning in the Ruhr coal district. This responsible newspaper publishes a warning so energetic that it is accepted in well informed quarters as of more importance than any of the rumors in circulation.
Munich, Brunswick and other cities are claimed to be sub-centers for the movement. According to the paper, communists will be armed throughout Germany.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE
By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MR. GRASSHOPPER AGAIN.

"Really, Mrs. Grasshopper," said Mr. Grasshopper, hopping home one evening after a day spent in traveling about the country—side.

"Really," he repeated, "I've had a most interesting time."
"Do tell me about it," said Mrs. Grasshopper.
"I, too, have been hopping about a good deal, looking at the beautiful autumn flowers, feeling the nice cool, clear air which made me feel just like a good long series of hops, or perhaps a long walk of hops, one might say."

"Well," said Mr. Grasshopper, "of course when it comes this time of the year I feel like doing things, and in a short time I won't. Just before the cold winter comes and while there is a little bit of warmth and sunshine to these brisk autumn days I enjoy being out-of-doors, but such days are almost over now."

"So I was wandering about, hopping here and hopping there, enjoying this view and that, when along I came to a house that was white."
"Was there anything so remarkable about that?" asked Mrs. Grasshopper.
"Nothing remarkable in the least," said Mr. Grasshopper. "In fact, quite usual."

"Then why mention it?" asked Mrs. Grasshopper.
"Oh, just to add a little color to the description or account which I am giving."

"You're not adding much color when you say the house was white," said Mrs. Grasshopper.
"No," said Mr. Grasshopper, "but then I must speak the truth. The house was white. And when one speaks of adding color to a story or a description or an account of anything one means one is adding a little attractiveness to it."

"It makes my account a little more interesting when I say the house was white rather than just saying it was a house. Now you have more of an idea of the way the house looked and it makes the story more real to you. You see it more as I did."

"True, true," said Mrs. Grasshopper. "Pray continue."
"I went into the white house, through the front door, which was opened wide. Now you might have thought that I would have been nervous or frightened hopping into a big house like that."

"You might have thought that I would be so embarrassed and shy and all of that, that I would have stumbled over the hall table and upset the flowers there."

"You're rather small to do all that," said Mrs. Grasshopper.
"If I had been terribly embarrassed I might have done almost anything," he said.

"Perhaps," said Mrs. Grasshopper, "but it isn't likely. However, do go on with your story."

"Well," Mr. Grasshopper said, "I hopped along the front hall and there I saw a hatrack. I believe that is its name. Anyway, it is a place where the hats are kept belonging to the people who live in the house. Also the hats of visitors are kept there, too."

"As I hadn't any hat to leave I didn't leave one. That was sensible enough."

"Very sensible," said Mrs. Grasshopper.

"But I hopped upon a hat and I said to myself:
"Grassy," I said, "now you will be able to tell Mrs. Grasshopper about the new autumn hats and what you think of them and if they're so fine as people pretend from the fuss you've heard them make about hats."

"I hopped on the first hat and then on the second hat. And I looked at every hat there."

"To my mind they were just hats. There weren't any that were especially nice, though one green one did take my eye."

"That is, it didn't exactly take my eye, but it took my fancy. You know—the expression."

"But most of the hats—Gracious, I'm glad you don't waste your time, Mrs. Grasshopper, in hat shops, for if you didn't get anything better than the ones I saw, with the exception of the green one, I'd hate to hop down the fields with you."

"How interesting to have seen them all," said Mrs. Grasshopper. "Well, I never thought so much of them seeing them on people, and I'm glad to hear they're not so fine when seen close up."

Johnny Was Timid.
"Can you tell me, John," asked the fair young teacher, "where shingles were first used?"
"Yes'm," answered modest Johnny, "but I'd rather not, ma'am."

A. T. Trimm Writes Interesting Note From California

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 31, 1919.

Ada Daily News, Ada, Oklahoma.

Dear friends:
I arrived in Los Angeles, at the home of my daughter and son-in-law, Oct. 4th, only to find that a fine baby girl weighing 8 pounds, had been born the night before my arrival, and a beautiful baby it is, too.

We have been around but a little since our arrival, owing to my daughter's present condition, but as soon as Ila is a little bit stronger we expect to see much of California, of which I will inform you later. But allow me to add that what I have already seen is most beautiful, and I am not at all surprised at the flowers and winter gardens that I have read about previous to my visit here, as the climate and all is most beautiful.

I had the pleasure of accompanying my son-in-law and four other police officers to a prize fight a few nights after my arrival here and enjoyed the exhibition very much, together with a cold bottle of beer during the bouts. Everything went well and we were all rejoicing over the excellent evening's pleasure when I discovered a pick-pocket who had been sitting next to me at the fight had relieved me of my pocketbook containing $10, and with five policemen in my crowd. Ha! Ha! Anyway, I had a good time at that and I'll bet my boots they don't do it again.

I trust this will reach everyone enjoying the best of health and success, and I will write more when we all get out and around, which will be very shortly now as Ila and the baby are both doing nicely, and everyone is well. Therefore, I beg to remain as ever,

A. T. Trimm and wife.

Won't Ask Mexico to Refund the Ransom Money Paid Bandits

By the Associated Press
—WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Mexico will not be asked by the American government to refund the $150,000 ransom money which mediators for William O. Jenkins, American consular agent at Puebla, paid to bandits for the release of Mr. Jenkins. This announcement was made today at the state department.

Officials said there was no warrant in international law for such a claim and that they could not conceive of the American government paying ransom in the event a citizen of a foreign country should be kidnapped in the United States.
